Incubation Centre

The Incubation and Innovative Cell at S. Chandra Mahila Mahavidyalaya, Amgaon functions as a dedicated ecosystem to foster self-reliance, innovative thinking, and business acumen among women students. Located in a tribal and rural belt, the cell plays a critical role in driving socio-economic transformation by encouraging female entrepreneurship.

Objectives and Core Functions

The cell operates under the institution's research wing to bridge the gap between rural student talent and the modern business landscape. Its key functionalities include:

- Cultivating Mindsets: Promotes entrepreneurial thinking among students through regular mentorship.
- Skill Development: Coordinates specialized workshops, competitions, and practical training sessions.
- Industrial Synergy: Builds industry linkages to create realistic learning environments and future self-employment opportunities.
- Intellectual Property Assistance: Works hand-in-hand with the campus Research & IPR Cell to guide students on basic intellectual property awareness.

Field Exposure and Collaborations

Rather than keeping students confined to classroom lectures, the incubation initiative emphasizes real-world application:

- University-Level Incubation Alignment: The college has signed a formal Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the Incubein Foundation RTMNU, Nagpur which is the official Business Incubation Centre (BIC) of Rashtrasant Tukadoji Maharaj Nagpur University (RTMNU). This milestone connection links rural women entrepreneurs directly to university-backed resources, expert mentoring networks, advanced lab facilities, and potential startup funding.

- Corporate MOUs: The college has signed a functional Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with local industries like the Hozitex Socks Company in Amgaon. This collaboration provides hands-on industrial exposure, production insights, and local manufacturing understanding to the students.
- Field Visits: The cell organizes practical field visits and interactive guest lectures led by industry experts to build interpersonal and leadership skills.

Through these targeted initiatives, the cell successfully ensures that young women from rural and backward regions can graduate not just as job seekers, but as independent, self-confident earners and creators.
